

INSPIRE THE NEXT GENERATION. BECOME A MENTOR TODAY.

You love your job, the ocean, and our province. So why not share all that love with the next generation of talent in ocean industries?

SHARE YOUR PASSION.

We have an online mentoring platform that connects ocean industry professionals with high school students across Newfoundland and Labrador through video conferencing.

The goal? Inspire new young talent by passing on everything you know and love about the industry. From how your work aligns with your passions to the path that led you to your career?

You'll also get to talk about how your role impacts the industry, and what the future holds. Have a problem that needs a solution? Challenge students to help solve it with their unique insights.

MAKE A DIFFERENCE.

Signing up is fast and simple. Contact us and we'll register you, provide the resources you'll need, and match you with classes or students based on your profile. It's that easy.

Share your unique experiences and passion for what you do via mentor-to-student online chat or via interactive video sessions with high school career development classes. It's a rewarding opportunity to connect with and inspire the next generation of ocean professionals.

FAQ

What's this all about, and who is involved?

OceansAdvance is partnering with Oceans Learning Partnership to deliver the OceansXchange career mentoring program. This is an online mentoring program that connects passionate industry professionals like you with interested high school students from across Newfoundland and Labrador who want to learn more about a career in ocean industries.

What's my role exactly?

As a mentor, your job is to share, connect, and inspire. You can talk about your education, your career path, or latest project. You can also share your thoughts on the future of the industry, potential employment opportunities, and what it takes to get there.

I don't have much experience talking to students, but I'm interested. Are there any resources to help me get started?

Absolutely. We have a guide to best practices and online resources to help you on the path to becoming an all-star mentor. We're also available to answer any questions or provide additional information you may require.

Alright, I'm ready. What's next?

Just get in touch to register and provide a profile. We'll pair you with classes and students, based on your role and their interests. It's that simple.
